QUARTERLY REPORT – SEPT / DEC 2005

Jab Technologies Limited ("Jab") is an Australian company specialising in e-business automation technology solutions and services.

The EZBiz Service

Since Oct 2005, the Company has progressed the following key initiatives -

- Development of the Company's EZBiz e-business automation platform, which will be used to underpin a range of e-business services the Company intends to release during 2006/07 has continued. The R&D group is nearing completion of the first EZBiz release. Trials scheduled to commence in January 2006 have now been scheduled for February to incorporate a new, much improved user interface expected allowing easier and simpler control for customers.
- The billing automation facilities of EZBiz have been completed, and the Company has commenced migration of the approximately 250 hosted websites and domain registration service customers acquired from Gumnut Systems Pty Ltd ("Gumnut") on 5 September 2005 to the new billing platform.
- Approximately 20% of clients have been set up to receive invoices from EZBiz. It is expected that all customer billing will be serviced by the new system by early March.
- The Company expects to meet its target of a fully operational EZBiz service, incorporating domain registration and management, hosting and web services, fully integrated with subscription based billing, by end of March or Q1, 2006.

EZBiz 2006 Service Rollout

Additional services planned for release during Q2 2006 are:

- EZBiz Website Solutions service – A rapid website generation and content management solution for a range of business and consumer needs, including business e-commerce, promotional, personal blog sites, internet news feeds and related functions.
- Email Commerce and Marketing service – The release of a more comprehensive email commerce and marketing solution to replace the previously available Jab In-Touch service.
- EZBiz Sales and Contractor Management service – A new customer / contractor management service to facilitate the generation of e-business sales quotations and subsequent project administration. This will simplify the management of customer e-business projects contracted to selected alliance partners.

Mergers & Acquisitions

Jab has continued its watching brief for further acquisition and merger opportunities that are compatible with the strategic directions of the business and that will add value to Jab shares for existing shareholders.

Jab Business Facilities

Expansion in recent months has resulted in the need for Jab to move premises to improve operational, sales and administration management. From Feb 2006, the Company has taken out a 3 year lease on premises located on level 3 / 200 Creek St, Brisbane.
