GENERAL ANNOUNCEMENT - NSX

The Directors of Mount Rommel Mining Ltd (MMT – NSXA code) can announce that on Thursday, 12 November 2009, the Company obtained formal confirmation from the Department of Primary Industries regarding its application for renewal of Exploration Licence 3821, made to cover those sections of the historic Madame Berry Goldfield, Allendale, considered most prospective for gold exploration today.

The grant of renewal comes at a time of rising world-wide interest in gold.

The renewed licence area extends over 12 square kms, that area including the zone of anomalous mineralogy outlined in percussion drilling by the former Aberfoyle Resources Ltd. some years ago, and not followed up at that time of low gold prices (1996/7). The accompanying drawing shows the part of the Allendale goldfield selected for the renewal application.

Members of the Company will be pleased to note that the term of this renewal extends to expire 26 February, 2012.

The Company, with this new authorisation, has the tenure on which re-launch an already advanced exploration program, at the time of its choosing.

About Mount Rommel Mining Ltd.

This is a Company developing the skills needed to explore and mine for gold in the Victorian Goldfields today.

The strategy of the Company is to demonstrate direct benefit to its Members via the holding of preference shares redeemable 31 December 2010 by delivery of 2 oz. gold per preference share.

Mount Rommel maintains listings of its Ordinary and Preference shares on the NSX.

Gold for the described redemption payments is identified at Glenfine, in the first instance. Operations there are subject to the approvals procedures of government, currently being progressed by the Company.
